W Kuan Hon is a consultant lawyer with Pinsent Masons, the law firm behind technology-focused thought leadership site Out-Law. She is also a Senior Researcher with the Cloud Legal Project and Microsoft Cloud Computing Research Centre (a collaboration with the University of Cambridge Computer Lab) at the Centre for Commercial Law Studies, Queen Mary University of London. A Solicitor of the Senior Courts of England and Wales and a (non-practising) New York Attorney, Kuan worked as a finance/insolvency lawyer for English and US law firms in the City of London before completing a Computing Science MSc and moving into technology law, particularly data protection law and legal issues in cloud computing/Internet of Things.

Kuan regularly speaks at events and conferences in the UK and abroad, having presented for CERN on cloud computing and for ENISA and Defcon London on cloud security. Her articles, many with collaborators, have been published e.g. by the IEEE 7th International Conference on Cloud Computing, Journal of International Data Privacy Law, Society for Computers and Law and Stanford Technology Law Review. She is a member of the British Computer Society’s Information Privacy Expert Panel (IPEP), and the Society for Computers & Law’s Media Board.
